

Where the room actually sits

"Where Are You on the Curve?" — live cohort survey · Day 1

n = 69 anonymous responses
MiM cohort

Confident and upwardly optimistic — not the struggling generation the headlines describe. But the optimism sits in the shadow of one sharp fear: AI & the job market.

Q1 · THE LADDER TODAY (0–10)

"Which rung are you standing on?"

7.1 /10

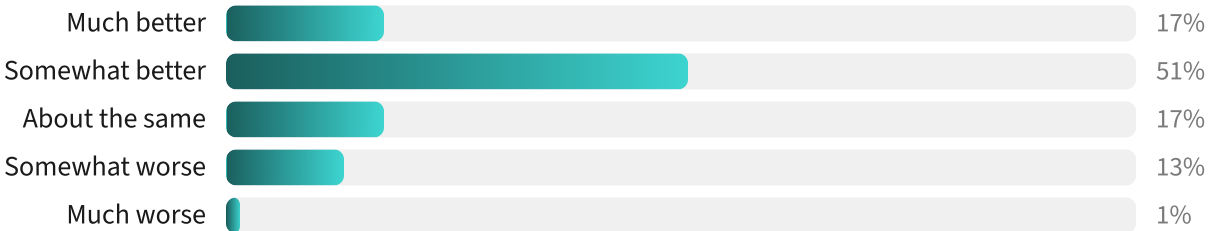

median 7
spread ±1.5
range 3–10

The room sits at 7 — above the typical young-adult level, not below it.

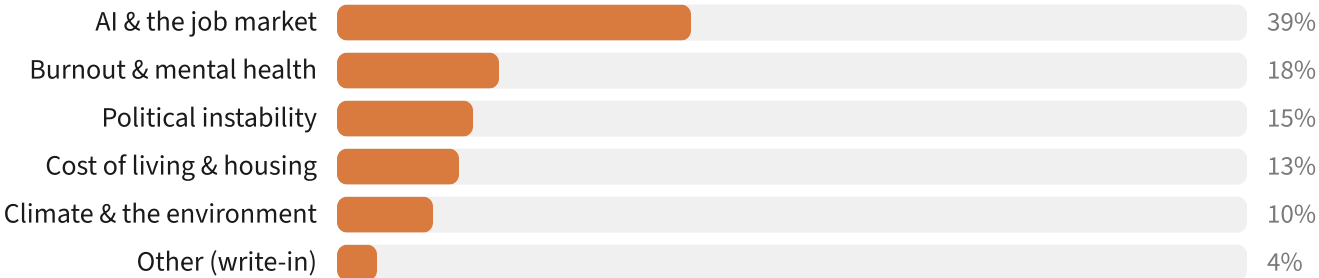

Q2 · VERSUS YOUR PARENTS' LIVES

"Will your life turn out better?"

68% expect better. The "generational reversal" doesn't hold in this room.

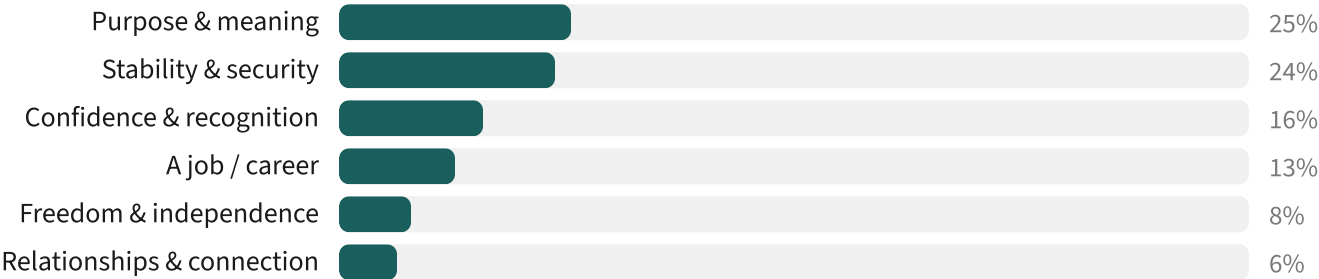

Q7 · WHAT WORRIES YOU MOST

AI & jobs dominate (39%) — cost of living is far lower than the public narrative.

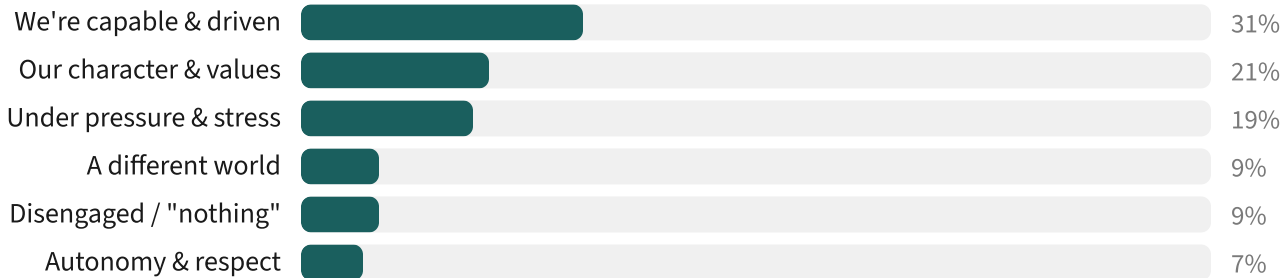

Anonymous · self-reported · a mirror to start a conversation, not a diagnosis

Q5 · WHAT THEY'RE STILL LOOKING FOR — THEMES

Searching for meaning and security at once — and, concretely, a job.

Q6 · WHAT THEY WISH OLDER GENERATIONS UNDERSTOOD — THEMES

"We're at least as capable as them"

"This is a fundamentally different world from theirs"

"Time efficiency isn't lack of trying"
